The Transmission of Trauma from One Generation to the Other

Friday, October 12, 2018

7:30 pm - 9:30 pm

EVENT DESCRIPTION:

This presentation includes material from the second analysis of an offspring of two Holocaust survivors, each of whom lost a child during the war. The first analysis (Kogan, 2003) focused primarily on the patient's relationship with her mother. This second analysis revolves around the elaboration of the complex and painful father-daughter relationship, centering on the events surrounding the death of the patient's father. The discussion includes an exploration of the father's deferred action on account of his Holocaust trauma, which he passed on to the next generation; the "break" in the idealized paternal representation; and the daughter's identification with her father's disavowed aggressive aspects.

PRESENTER: Ilany Kogan, MA

Ilany Kogan is a Training Analyst at the Israel Psychoanalytic Society. She works as a teacher and supervisor at the Generatia Center in Bucharest, Romania, and in various places across Germany, in the fields of "Migration" and "Trauma".

For many years, Ilany Kogan worked extensively with Holocaust survivors' offspring and published papers and books on this topic. She was awarded the Elise M. Hayman Award for the Study of the Holocaust and Genocide (2005).

She is the author of: The Cry of Mute Children, London & New York: Free Association Books (1995); Escape from Selfhood, London: IPA Publications (2007); The Struggle Against Mourning, Maryland: Rowman & Littlefield, (2007); Canvas Of Change - Analysis Through the Prism of Creativity, London: Karnac Books (2012).

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES:

At the end of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Explore the phenomenon of the transmission of trauma from one generation to the next, by using a case illustration.
2. Understand the impact of traumatized, damaged parents on the second generation.
3. Examine unique transference and countertransference problems that may arise because of patient and analyst belonging to the same traumatized large group.
