

Scars That Heal & Scars That Do Not Heal: The Centrality of Transference and Countertransference in Child Psychoanalysis

Wednesday, October 2, 2019

7:30 pm to 9:30 pm

This presentation will describe the psychoanalytic treatment of a child who experienced early deprivation, maltreatment, and loss. The treatment began during the child's preschool years, and continued into her early adolescence. The clinical material will be used to demonstrate the ways in which the child's early experiences affected her conscious and unconscious mind at different developmental stages. In addition, the presentation will highlight the transferences and countertransferences that were prominent at different points in the treatment.

Presenter: Sydney Anderson, PhD

Sydney Anderson, PhD, is an adult and child psychoanalyst living and working in Bloomington, Indiana. She is a faculty member of the Cincinnati Psychoanalytic Institute and of the Southeastern Child Analytic Consortium.

Discussant: Robert Kravis, PsyD
